

Professional Background

SUMMARY

As an IT consultant and technical engineer since 1985, I have dealt with many aspects of communication and computer technology. This has included working with the internals of system software and computer hardware, networking and the Internet, Database management and programming, Web design, hosting and programming.

As a Publisher, I have developed since 1997 my skills in Marketing and Public Relations and have implemented national media campaigns (Radio, TV and Printed Press) in the USA, including a national USA book tour in 2001.

I am used to define and work with specific budgets, deal with the best and most financially reliable external contractors, and always keep detailed accounting with tax-ready periodic financial reports. My strongest skills are: autodidact, perfectionist and problem solver. I like to think that, in life, "there are no problems; only solutions."
